MEMORY OF IMMORTAL BARD

Burns Night Celebration by Honolulu Scottish Thistle Club.

Orations by Dr. McMillan, R. Catton and T. Black — Speeches and Music by Members and Friends.

About 60 gentlemen sat down to the Burns banquet at the Arlington hotel last night. The celebration was one of the most elaborate and successful ever attempted by the Scottish Thistle club. A carefully arranged program of music, readings, speeches, etc., was carried out. The tables were spread in the banquet parlor, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion. Mr. Krouse personally directed the feast.

Chief Dall, in his opening remarks, said that all present knew the purpose of the gathering. It was a worldwide observance, and was held to perpetuate the memory of one of the mightiest of men. Burns' influence had moved the hearts of men and the world was better for his having lived.

Dr. Thomas McMillan was the first regular speaker of the evening. He spoke to the toast, "The Immortal Memory of Burns." The famous poet had attained a position in the hearts of mankind second to none. No other poet had approached so near to the people. Burns was an honest man, a man of principle. The world is made better by honoring his memory. The orator gave an intensely interesting sketch of "the immortal bard," in which his whiggism, or democracy as it would be called today, was dwelt upon. It was the stand that Burns took against Toryism which caused a great deal of the detracting of his character in his lifetime. When it was known he was a dying man there was a revolution of sentiment in his favor which made his memory one of the most beloved of the age.

Wm. White responded for the past chiefs of the club, speaking of the objects and work of the organization.

Robert Catton responded for the "Land o' Burns." He spoke feelingly of auld Scotland and the love of Scotsmen for it. Burns loved Scotland. Walter Scott should not be forgotten. Robert Louis Stevenson, whose pathetic address to the Honolulu Scottish Thistle club burned in their hearts, was as loyal to Scotland as Burns himself. Mr. Catton closed with several historical allusions, in keeping with the subject.

J. A. Dower read Whittier's "Burns," and spoke feelingly of the distinguished subject.

D. Logan responded to "The Land We Live In."

Fred. W. Wood responded to the toast "Hilo Caledonian Club," and referred in the most complimentary terms to Chief Archie Steele, and the esteem in which he was held by his brothers in Honolulu.

Chief Dall's recitation of "Tam O'Shanter" was listened to with interest.

Thomas Black responded in a happy vein to the toast, "Absent Members," remarking the fact that well-known brethren of the club were scattered the world over. W. Horace Wright, R. W. Shingle and W. H. Coney each made a model speech for "The Press." Dr. Murray, the newest member, responded to "The Ladies."

Robert Catton, D. H. Macrae, W. Dickson, John C. Brown, W. A. Love, O. B. Braddick and others contributed the musical numbers. W. A. Henshall made a happy response for the Hawaiian Bar, proposed as a special compliment to himself. All present joined in some of the choruses and in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" at the close.

The program cards were beautiful souvenirs. On the front of each was a splendid portrait of Burns, reproduced by Mr. Davey.
